It is thus better to buy the sizes that you need most rather than to buy a full set that you later find is incomplete. Below you will find the 5 most common screw head shapes with the various sizes available. A flat head screwdriver is also sometimes referred to as a slotted screwdriver. These screwdrivers are the easiest to recognize because of its wedge-shaped end. These hex keys are sometimes referred to as Allen wrenches and these screwdrivers usually come in an L-shaped key with no handle. Measurements for the sizes of hex keys are done across the flat parts of the hex. The Robertson drive is commonly referred to as a square drive and is very popular in both electrical and construction fields. Like the Phillips screwdrivers, Robertson drives also make use of a numbering system. Robertson drives have corresponding color codes to make each size easy to identify. The Phillips screwdriver has become the standard in many different countries. Phillips drives have become a very popular drive when it comes to precision work, that's why it is used in electronics and laptops. Phillips screwdrivers can be used on many different cruciform screws. Torx drives are designed to function at higher torques than other screwdriver types and also have a longer lifespan. The Torx drive is sometimes referred to as a star drive due to the resemblance it has with its 6-point star shape. Torx drives have different numbers based upon the different distances between two opposing points. See more sizes charts here. Budget RM 100,000 9 photos Mens Womens Kids Sports Brands Outlet USC Back to top I recently obtained a new computer, and I've been trying to map a network drive so that I can access it from This PC, similar to a normal hard drive. The network drive is a Seagate GoFlex Home connected to a router via ethernet, and the computer is running Windows 10 Home and connected wirelessly. I've tried connecting using the wizard in This PC. After I enter the credentials, I get this message: The mapped network drive could not be created because the following error has occurred: A specific logon session does not exist. It may already have been terminated. I'm certain that the credentials are correct. I do have a second computer, which has both Windows 7 and 10 installed, and it can connect fine when running either OS. One thing that I noticed is that on the dual-boot computer, the drive is listed in Network as a computer, even if it's not mapped. It does appear in the new computer's Network folder, but as a storage device and media device. I can access it from here, but only image and sound files are listed. I can also connect by entering the drive's IP address into a web browser. I can access all of the files from here, but it's a bit inconvenient. If I enter the IP address into Explorer instead of the device name (\\192.168.1.2 instead of \\GOFLEX_HOME), I'm able to see the shared folders, but if I try to enter one, it asks for credentials, and after I enter them, I get the same error message. I've tried changing the IP address; I've tried making the workgroups of the drive and computer the same; I'm not really sure what else to try. It's worked fine for several years with the other computers, but it doesn't work from the new one. Any suggestions?
